

MR. WINTERMUTE'S TWO SURPRISES.

On Being Called by Name in the Bowery, and Seeing His Friend Arrested.

Policeman O'Connor of the Mulberry street command arraigned in the Tomb Police Court yesterday Solomon Keely, alias Walling, alias Swazy, a fashionably dressed man.

Mr. Ernest Wuelfel, who caused the prisoner's arrest, said to Justice Outerbourg: "Two weeks ago I was walking on the Bowery, when a confederate of this man came up to me, slapped me on the shoulder, and called me by a name. I at once made up my mind that he was a swindler, and I replied, 'You are mistaken; my name is Bergman, of 205 South Fifth street, Brooklyn.' I lingered around the Bowery, and had not gone a block before a man whom I had seen talking to the prisoner came up and said, 'How do you do, Mr. Bergman? Don't you know me? I am a letter carrier in Brooklyn, and every day I give you letters?' I denounced the man as a swindler, and told him I would call the police walking in the Bowery," Mr. Wuelfel continued.

I saw this prisoner about this gentleman, who I knew well. Oliver H. Brown, a trustee of the Bowery Savings Bank, I saw the prisoner leave him and meet another man.

They leaned against a telephone pole, and I heard them say, 'We can get him here.'

He is a countryman; we can get him,' then saw the other man across Mr. Wintermute, and I quickly went in search of Policeman O'Connor and had him arrest the swindler.

Oliver H. Wintermute, who seemed astonished at the whole transaction, said, 'This man came up to me and said his name, and when he was Jacob L. Swazy, cousin of James Swazy, the cashier of the National bank of Newton, I knew Swazy well, and I had the man arrested the next morning since he seemed familiar with the facts, and his friend then asked me to join him in a social drink.'

The policeman noted the name of the place, at leisure, I was on the point of joining them, when one of them suddenly disappeared, and the person of the break easily be seen from the entrance, making the water foam. A mile will be lowered into the tunnel this week to draw the cars through.

The policeman caught hold of his man, and Mr. Wuelfel explained to me who the prisoner was.

Justice O'Connor gave to Justice Outerbourg a leather purse which he had taken from Keely. In it was a draft to the order of the American Surety Manufacturing Company of Boston for $750, and a check on the Merchants and Mechanics Bank of this City for $200.

Lawyer James Oliver held that Justice Outerbourg could not hold the prisoner, as there had really been no offence committed.

Just then Mr. Wintermute added, "If I had known as much as Mr. Wuelfel did, I would have made a breach of the peace had I been there. He is more than a swindler, he is a thief, and it has ever been."

Mr. Wuelfel deserves the thanks of the community for acting in the way he has done,"

Justice Outerbourg held the prisoner for trial as a common swindler.

IN OTHER MEN'S NAMES.

Now Charles H. Ray is Alleged to Have Been Making his Living.

Charles H. Ray, who was arrested on Tuesday on a charge of having fraudulently obtained $10 from Custom House Officer Jonas H. Bibby, by representing himself as C. M. Tingie, Chief Inspector of Customs of Washington, was before Justice Naeher in Brooklyn yesterday. He is a muscular man, of good address, and seemed entirely composed. His counsel asked for his discharge upon certain technicalities, but the request was refused. Mr. Bibby said that he had heard of Mr. Tingie as a prominent officer in the customs service, and he thought that his visitor was a man of consequence.
